

What's Wrong With "Pet" Food?

Caring consumers might never guess that lonely dogs and cats are confined to tiny barren cages in laboratories for years on end and subjected to horrible experiments to test dog and cat food.

The following companies make top-quality food for dogs and cats without harming animals in laboratories. Please help us save thousands of animals from unspeakable cruelty by buying only from these companies.

For more information about how "pet" food is contaminated with cruelty and to find the most up-to-date list of companies that don't test on animals, check out lamsCruelty.com.

All PETA product lists are periodically updated. Companies listed have signed a PETA statement of assurance. Companies not listed may not test their products on animals, but because they have not completed a statement of assurance, they are not included. If a company that you are interested in does not appear on this list, then we have no information on its policies. We recommend that you contact such companies and request that they respond to PETA's survey (available online) and/or provide you directly with more information about how their products are tested. This list is based on the most current information at the time of printing.
